

Subscriber's Edition

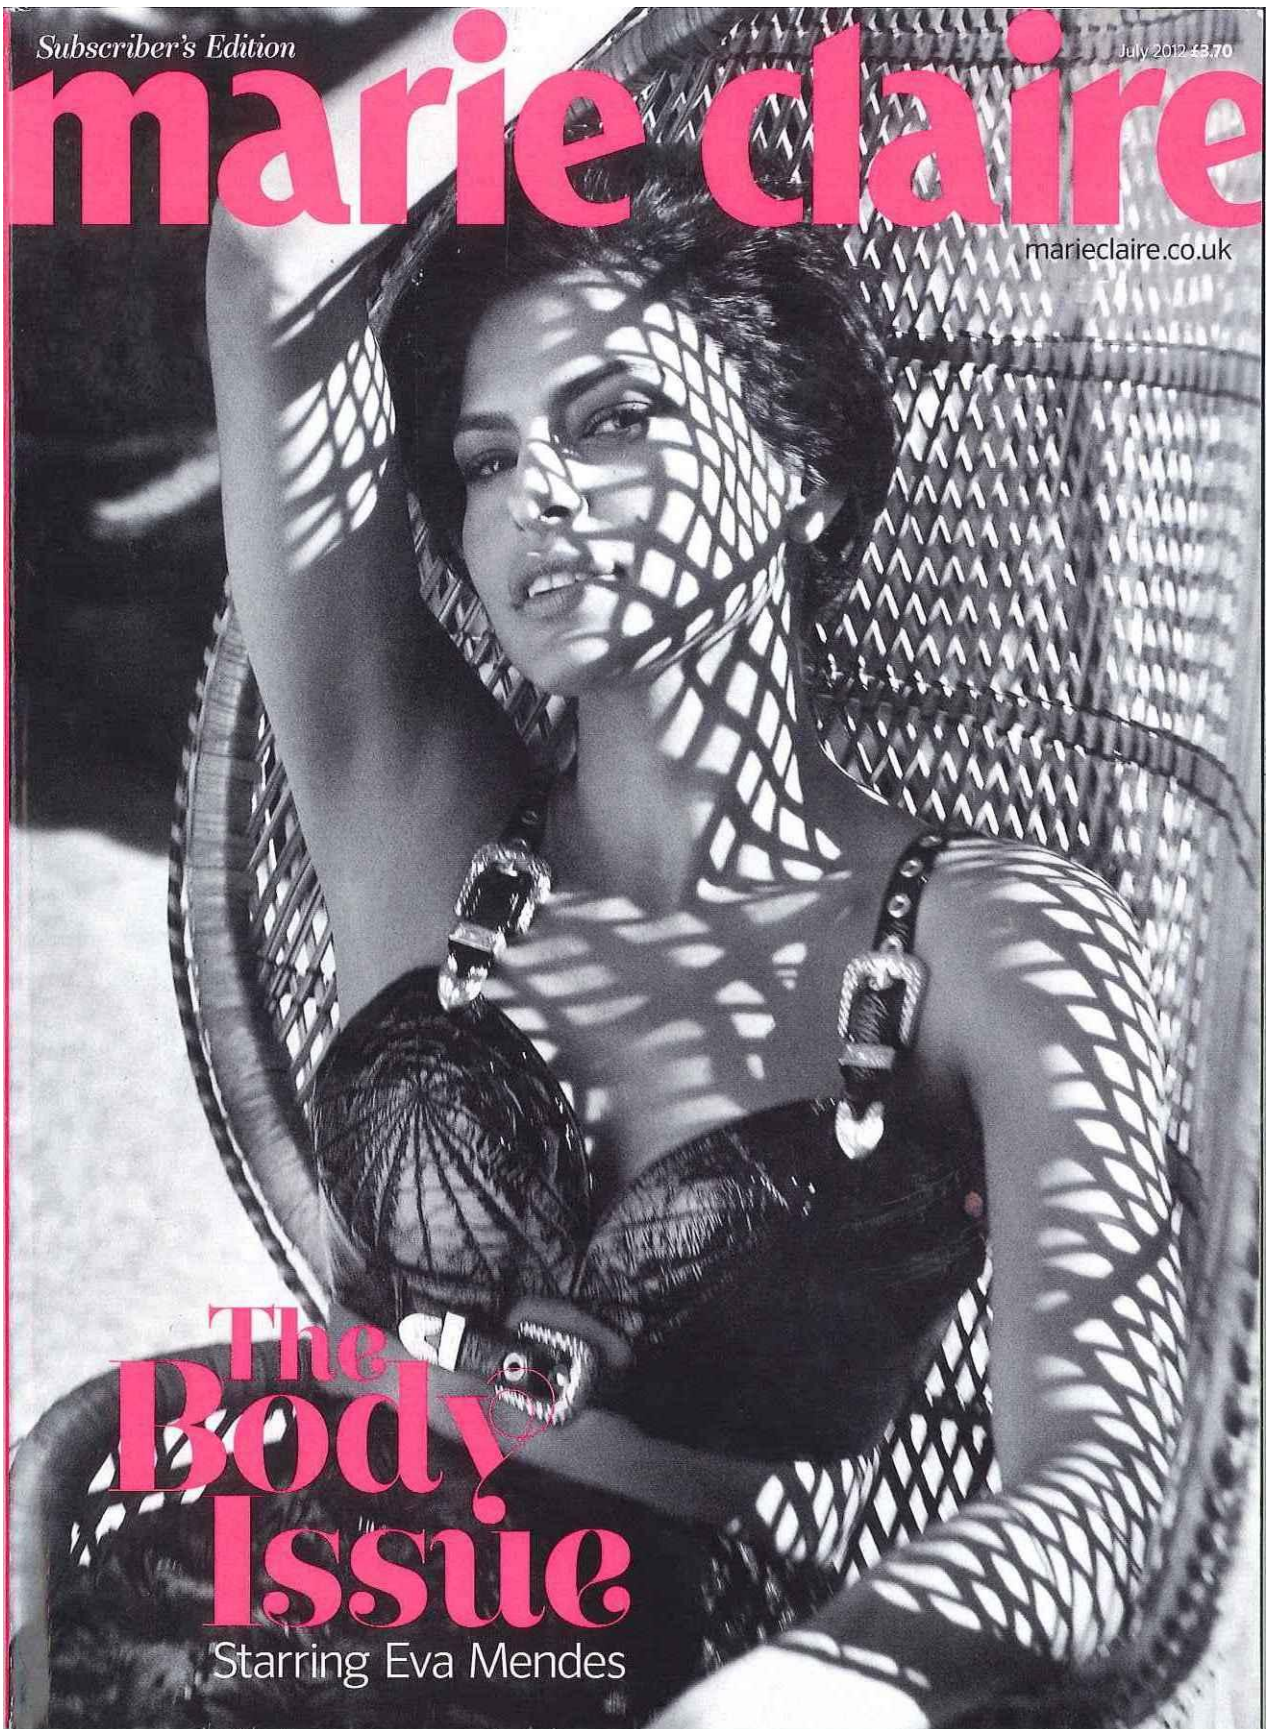

July 2012 £3.70

marie claire

marieclaire.co.uk

The Body Issue

Starring Eva Mendes

marie claire Reporter

Words by Martha Hayes. Photographs by Getty Images, Rex. © Rankin, courtesy Other Criteria. 'Contains Nudity' at Other Criteria, 14 Hinde Street, London, until 21 June 2012 (othercriteria.com)

Jubilee celebrations, 70s-style (above and left)

Rankin's 'Contains Nudity' exhibition features The Queen, 2002

Anarchy In The UK

The jubilee is about more than cupcakes and bunting. And ma'am will not be amused...

IF YOU THOUGHT LAST YEAR'S Royal Wedding was the party of the century, you haven't seen anything yet. Step forward, Her Majesty! It's less about sipping from teacups of Pimm's; more about throwing them across the room. Well, not exactly, but The Sex Pistols are back in the charts, and, come 5 June, we'll be ready for a right royal (gin) punch-up.

Party like it's 1952 with the (drag) queens at The Supperclub in London's Notting Hill or check out The Book Club's Diamond Jubilee Street Party, where Guilty Pleasures DJs will spin tunes and cake mistress Lily Vanilli will provide the nosh. Pre-book a royally named table (Charles, Harry, Wills etc)

at Archer Street in Soho – we know which we'll be sitting on – or head to the Garden Party at Hoochie Coochie in Bristol for an anarchic circus spectacular with, um, patriotic strippers. What to wear? The Diamond Jubilee Festival at London's Battersea Park has vintage stalls cut-price Kate would approve of.

Gin is by royal appointment, obv's; we love Bombay Sapphire's Ginbilee masterclasses at London's Rib Room, while Hix Restaurants (nationwide) will serve a Royal Warranted Punch with Beefeater Gin.

Serve up Bubble Food's molecular takes on 1950s classics from its Coronation Banquet (bubblefood.com) or check out risqué ice cream parlour The Icecreamists' first book (£16.99, Octopus) for flavours Sid Vicious would be proud of. Breast milk anyone? God save the cream...

Biscuiteers' Jubilee collection, £6 each (biscuiteers.com)

“By 5 June, we'll be ready for a right royal (gin) punch-up”

The Sex Pistols are back in the charts

Sipsmith London Dry Gin, £27.49

Bubble Food's Coronation Banquet

Cold comfort: ice cream for adults

Words by Martha Hayes. Photo 'Contains Nudity' at Other Cr

Anarchy In The UK

The jubilee is about more than cupcakes and bunting. And ma'am will not be amused...

The Sex Pistols are back in the charts

IF YOU THOUGHT LAST YEAR'S Royal Wedding was the party of the century, you haven't seen anything yet. Step forward, Her Majesty! It's less about sipping from teacups of Pimm's; more about throwing them across the room. Well, not exactly, but The Sex Pistols are back in the charts, and, come 5 June, we'll be ready for a right royal (gin) punch-up.

Party like it's 1952 with the (drag) queens at The Supperclub in London's Notting Hill or check out The Book Club's Diamond Jubilee Street Party, where Guilty Pleasures DJs will spin tunes and cake mistress Lily Vanilli will provide the nosh.

Pre-book a royally named table (Charles, Harry, Wills etc)

at Archer Street in Soho – we know which we'll be sitting on – or head to the Garden Party at Hoochie Coochie in Bristol for an anarchic circus spectacular with, um, patriotic strippers. What to wear? The Diamond Jubilee Festival at London's Battersea Park has vintage stalls cut-price Kate would approve of.

Gin is by royal appointment, obv's; we love Bombay Sapphire's Ginbilee masterclasses at London's Rib Room, while Hix Restaurants (nationwide) will serve a Royal Warranted Punch with Beefeater Gin.

Serve up Bubble Food's molecular takes on 1950s classics from its Coronation Banquet (bubblefood.com) or check out risqué ice cream parlour The Icecreamists' first book (£16.99, Octopus) for flavours Sid Vicious would be proud of. Breast milk anyone? God save the cream...

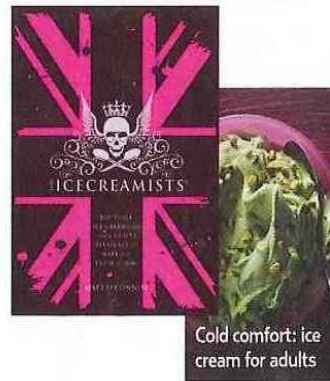

Biscuiteers' Jubilee collection, £6 each (biscuiteers.com)

“By 5 June, we'll be read for a right royal (gin) punch-up”

Bubble Food's Coronation Banquet

Sipsmith London Dry Gin, £27.49

Cold comfort: ice cream for adults